Principles

Personal Data

In this Policy “Personal Data” means any information relating to an identified or identifiable person. An identifiable person is one who can be identified, directly or indirectly, in particular by reference to an identification number or to one or more factors specific to their physical, physiological, mental, economic, cultural or social identity or an opinion and whether recorded in a material form or not, about an individual whose identity is apparent, or can reasonably be ascertained from the information or opinion.

Personal Data Collection

K&S only collects personal data for its business purposes. For example, K&S collects information that is necessary for the establishment and maintenance of records for its employees, clients, suppliers of goods and services, sub-contractors and others with whom it conducts business. Depending on the business purpose, the personal data we collect may include:

- Name, address and contact details (including phone number and email);
- Information relating to previous services provided by K&S; or
- Employment or financial information.

K&S generally collects personal data directly from you in person, in writing, by telephone, email or via our website. For example, we may collect information when you ask us to provide services to you.

When you visit our website, information about your computer or web device is automatically recorded by our website. This includes your IP address and associated domain name, the date and time of your visit to our site, the pages you accessed or downloaded, the address of the last site you visited, your operating system and the type of browser you used. This information may be collected by us or by a third party service provider on our behalf. This information may be collected for statistical and system administration purposes, and to improve our web based services. It does not readily identify individuals, and we will not attempt to identify individuals from the records our server generates unless it is necessary to do so for law enforcement purposes.

We may also use “cookies” to assign your device a user ID. A cookie is a small piece of information that is sent to your browser and stored on your computer's hard drive. Cookies contain information that allows us to identify your device, understand your use of our websites and set your preferences for future visits. Use and Disclosure of Personal Data

K&S will only use personal data for the purpose for which it was collected or for related purposes permitted by law. K&S uses personal data to provide, manage and administer the services it provides. In the normal course of our business operations we may disclose personal data to related bodies corporate and statutory entities authorised to access the information.

Personal data collected is also used to facilitate distribution of corporate communications such as our financial results, annual reports and other information that is relevant to the promotion or reporting of our business activities. Personal information may also be disclosed to our contract service providers, including but not limited to customer service staff, consultants, advisers, IT and internet service providers. We may also retain the personal data of candidates who wish to be considered for future positions as and when they become available.

K&S reserves the right to transfer, and you consent to K&S transferring, your personal data to another entity in the event we sell or transfer all or a portion of our business or assets. Should such a sale or transfer occur, we will use reasonable efforts to direct the transferee to use personal data you have provided to us in a manner that is consistent with the principles described in this Policy.

To ensure the integrity and safety of personal data, K&S only discloses the personal data it holds to the individual concerned, their legally authorised representative, or to fulfill legal or regulatory requirements. K&S may also disclose personal data to its advisers and other parties in connection with the present and future conduct of its business.

K&S will destroy any personal data we hold about you as soon as it is no longer reasonably required for the purpose for which it was collected or where we are required by law to do so.

Storage and Security of Personal Data

Personal data is principally held in electronic databases maintained within K&S' computer network. K&S maintains appropriate administrative, technical and physical safeguards designed to protect the personal data you provide against accidental, unlawful or unauthorised destruction, loss, alteration, access, disclosure or use.

Notification of Data Breaches

The new Notification of Data Breaches (NDB) Scheme under the Act came into effect in February 2018. The NDB Scheme requires organisations (including K&S) with obligations under the Act to notify the Office of the Australian Information Commissioner (OAIC) and affected individuals about 'eligible data breaches'. A data breach is eligible where it is likely to result in serious harm to any of the persons to which it relates.

If K&S believes that there has been an eligible data breach that impacts your personal information, K&S will notify you of the nature of the breach and will keep you informed of the steps it is taking in relation to that breach. Where required, K&S will also inform the OAIC of the breach.
